- SEBI has directed corporate Registered Investment Advisers (RIAs) to file a compliance certificate declaring that they maintain client-level segregation i.e. advisory clients at a family level cannot work with the distribution wing of the same company. Such a declaration must be approved by any auditor and submitted within 6 months of the end of the financial year.
- According to a draft circular published by the IRDAI, the insurance regulator has identified four types of frauds in the insurance industry – Internal fraud, distribution fraud, policyholder fraud or claims fraud and external fraud. As part of the fraud detection mechanism, IRDAI has proposed that insurance companies should do background checks for any adverse records of their agents and intermediaries to curb instances of fraud. IRDAI has also proposed that insurers should put in place a mechanism to analyse customer complaints against distribution channels.
